ChasePawz & TMarie Join Forces to Fight Home Insecurity

The three-day event, starting on Friday, April 8, 2020, will feature music, food, and information activities to raise awareness and funds for growing home insecurity community.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania— TMarie, a renowned singer and philanthropist, and ChasePawz, a non-profit organization that rescues pets and pet owners seeking permanent housing have teamed up to host the 6th annual Charity Concert for Home Insecurity Awareness at Jackson Square Plaza in Philadelphia.

The event, which will run from April 8th to April 10th 2020 aims to raise funds and awareness for the growing home insecurity community int the city and beyond. It will feature music, food, information activities and appearances from ChasePawz's very own Uplifting Pet Crew. Donations begin at $30 for tickets which grant guesses access to the venue for the three-day event.

Nipsy Carlton, TMarie's coordinator and event manager, said the charity concert is a creative and inviting way to not only raise awareness but to give back to the local community. "Every dollar that is raise during the TMarie's 6th Annual Charity Concert for home insecurity awareness, a minimum of $2,000 worth of funds can be given to individuals struggling to remain housed."

The charity concert will feature music from TMarie, and other artists, food donated from Center City's diverse selection of eateries, and informative activities from local teachers and fair housing activist Chuck Bell. The event is supported by churches, local businesses, and international sponsors from the entertainment industry.

The proceeds from the event will go to ChasePawz, which works with numerous housing organizations across the nation to provide resources, services, care, and products to pets, their owners, and the home insecure. According to Willow Bradon, executive director of engagement and media relations at ChasePawz, the partnership with TMarie has been a wonderful one, raising nearly $500,000 in the past two years.

TMarie is a singer and philanthropist who has been involved in various causes, such as education, housing, and environment. She founded the TMarie Foundation, which supports various initiatives and organizations that aim to improve the lives of people and animals.

ChasePawz is a non-profit organization that was founded in 2016 by Tonii Jackson; an animal lover who wanted to help pets and pet owners facing physical, financial or health related hardships. The organization has rescued over 10,000 pets and helped over 2,700 pet owners secure food and permanent housing.
